I wish to express gratitude and sincerest thanks for the encouragement, support and invaluable advice of the following people in the completion of this study.

My deep gratitude is especially extended to Dr. Mark Weeks, my thesis advisor, for his invaluable advice, inspiration, encouragement and his dedicated time in gradually educating and heartening me throughout the study. Sincere thanks are due to Asst. Prof. Arin Sa-idi, my co-advisor, for her special assistance and useful guidance, and also to Ajarn Naengnoie Promsuwansiri for her great suggestions and literary sources. I am also grateful to other teachers in the English Section, Department of Western Language, for their encouragement.

I wish to thank my husband, Thana, for his support, understanding and encouragement. My friends, too, have been important to me in these things. Finally, I must acknowledge my parents for their faith, encouragement and moral support for giving me the opportunity to undertake this study.
