

Acknowledgements

First of all, I have to thank my own ambition and great perseverance for making me finish my thesis. Without these qualities, I would not be able to make my research possible. I also would like to express my gratefulness to Asst. Prof. Dr. Narumon Karnchanathat for helping me work on my choice topic, for correcting my thesis, for your valuable advice on my thesis and my life and her remarkable endurance with my caprice. I am very appreciative of all the concerns she has for me: bringing me back to the right track when I was lost during doing my thesis, and encouraging me when I encountered difficult times. Besides, I am much obliged to Acharn Naengnoie Wan-Aroonwong, my co-adviser, who helped correcting my drafts, gave me constructive suggestions and, most importantly, taught me film elements and how to read films, all I need for a good start to further my exploration in this media. I am also very grateful to my thesis-examination committee members, Dr. Supasiri Hongrittipun and Archan Naprach Boonwart for their useful recommendations.

Apart from my thesis-examining committee, there are some people and things that I would like to acknowledge: Acharn Chailert Kitprasert whom I had a chance to study with in some courses. Considerable knowledge I gained in Linguistic Perspective in Literature class assists me to analyze language style in Fight Club. His profound thoughts toward poetry and other subjects also extend my views. Dr. Pak Silawipaporn who introduced English and American literature world to me, lent and suggested me some good books and gave me subtle notion of life, humans and nature and, most significantly, has been my inspiration in studying literature; Dr. Chalerm Sri Chantasingh, who made me realize how the minorities had to suffer for their living overseas through minorities' short stories; David Fincher who made Fight Club alive and gave me a chance to know that there is a film that answers my questions about life; Chuck Palahniuk who creates all of those stunning ideas in Fight Club; my parents who give me wholehearted support throughout my entire life; my relatives who always hearten me to push on with my thesis; my M.A. in English friends whom I spend good and bad times with during my study; the graduate school for partial financial support; every book I have read, every film I have watched and every song I have listened, these worthwhile media help to shape my ideas; some characters in novels and films, Tyler in Fight Club, Neil and Mr. Keating in Dead Poets Society who became my idols and had a great impact on me. Once again, I would like to express my appreciation to everyone and everything that makes me become who I am and make my thesis achievable.
