

Method of Study

The study sample were selected by means of the randomized sampling from every level of education in each university. The prepared questionnaire included a series of questions concerning the sexuality and reproductive health.

Of the 3,200 questionnaires were distributed to the students by the peer counsellors in August 1990; 2,697 or 84.3 per cent were completed and processed for analysis. The SPSS/PC programs were used to calculate means, standard deviations, percentages, score distribution and Chi-square coefficients.

Questionnaire comprises of 6 parts as the following:

1. The general characteristics of the studied population.
2. The Knowledge about reproductive health.
3. The attitudes towards reproductive health.
4. The experiences relating to reproductive health.
5. The awareness, concern, and KAP on AIDS.
6. The needs for reproductive health services.