

Acknowledgements

For the completion of this thesis, my first greatest gratitude and appreciation go to my advisor, Asst. Prof. Dr. Narumon Karnchanathat, for her devotion of time and effort in correcting innumerable mistakes in this thesis as well as providing me with incalculable assistance, guidance and advice in conducting this study, and also to my co-advisor, Assoc. Prof. Dr. Duangmon Chitchamnong, for her encouragement and constructive suggestions. We have struggled together for a very long time. Thanks for generously accompanying me along this academic path as well as making me stronger and more patient. I also would like to express my great appreciation to my thesis-examination committee members, Acharn Chailert Kitprasert and Acharn Nangnoie Promsuwansiri for their useful comments and suggestions. Another important person I cannot forget to mention is Dr. Mark Weeks, my energetic and generous thesis consultant, who has provided valuable comments as well as correcting my writing of this thesis.

My deepest thanks go to instructors of the Department of Western Languages for their concern and moral support, and also to the Graduate School, Prince of Songkla University, for a sum of research fund to conduct this research.

To my M.A. in English friends, I would like to tell you that the time we have spent together proves our friendship. Thanks for being such nice companions.

Lastly, my special gratitude is to my parents for their continuous moral support. Thanks for giving me life and the opportunity to experience and overcome this challenging task.

Adisa Benjarattananon